Policy on Sympathy Expressions by BMTA

I was going to write my monthly column encouraging you all to get out on the trail during the crisp, beautiful days of late winter and early spring, and that is still worth doing.

But I feel another subject also needs to be shared. BMTA has recently learned of a number of surgeries, injuries, illnesses and deaths of BMTA members or their immediate families. A lot of this is just the natural result of aging by many of us, and our increasing awareness of such instances is the result of better communications over the web. My guess is that we will have 10-20 of these unfortunate situations each year.

Regardless of the cause, when we hear about it occurring, the question arises as to whether BMTA should send flowers or a plant or whether we should instead send a get-well or condolence card. We have done both at times in the past. At the January Board meeting we discussed this question again. While I can buy nice flowers at Costco for $15, by the time we have them delivered by a florist the cost rises to at least $60. That would bring the annual budget of this category to something like $1000.

People vary on their feelings about the importance of such demonstrations of caring. Some feel it is essential to recognize hospitalizations, etc., with flowers, while others don't and would rather the funds go to an appropriate non-profit. The policy decided by the Board is that BMTA should express its sympathy and caring by sending a card. When people join or donate to BMTA, we believe they primarily want their funds to be used to support the trail, and we think most of those to whom we might send flowers or a plant feel the same. Of course we may make exceptions at times, an example being BMTA's participation in funding the memorial bench in memory of long-time member and past-President Betty Petty after her tragic death in a car accident in 2013.

We don't have a BMTA blog, but if you want to express your feelings on this subject or any other subject, I would like to hear from you. You can e-mail me at feedback(at)bmta(dot)org.

P.S. While discussing this column with Past President David Blount, he suggested that we might send a BMT greeting card, if we had one. If you are a photographer/artist and would be interested in working on this project, please let me know. A quick Google search shows these cards are available for many trails.

January 23 Hike
By Ralph Heller – Hiking Director

On Saturday January 23, sixteen folks gathered at BMTA headquarters for the 3.5 mile hike from the pavilion in Cherry Log Mountain to Boardtown Road. Early in the week the weather forecast had been dire, with a prediction of rain the night before and mixed rain and snow during the hike period. But we got lucky. The front moved more quickly than predicted, and by the time the hike started, the sun started shining. By the time the hike was over, there was hardly a cloud in the sky. It turned out to be a great day for a hike. This hike was advertised and conducted as an Easy Trek outing. Ken Cissna joined us at the pavilion, which then gave us a turnout of seventeen hikers, ten of which were guests.

The hike went through the new reroute on Patterson Mountain, so we had the chance to show off our new work and explain some of the things we do during trail maintenance. On Patterson Mountain, we left the trail for a short while to walk up the road in the newly opened section of the Sisson development. At the top of the mountain there was a spectacular view of the mountains to the east which included Rich Mountain and Rocky Mountain in one large panorama, one of the best view locations in Gilmer County.

After the hike, many in the group finished up with lunch at the Pink Pig. There were a number of comments that this was a great hike.

Hike Inn Overnight – Monday Feb. 23
By Ralph Heller – Hiking Director

One of the most enjoyable BMTA hiking events of the year is just around the corner. There are still rooms available, but don’t miss out by waiting too late and finding that the rooms are all booked. You must register by booking your reservation with the Hike Inn. Details for registering can be found in the Upcoming Hikes section of this newsletter or in the Activities Section of the web site.

Don’t Delay!
Submitted by George Owen … Cold with problems

The main body of a dozen workers for this trip were assigned to finish the half-mile relocation on the Sisson property begun last month. George Owen and Tom Keene were in charge, with Darcy Douglas instructing any "newbies." We met an hour later (9 a.m.) than usual for breakfast at the Village Restaurant in Blue Ridge because of the extreme cold.

To explain the problem the work crew faced when arriving on site about 10 a.m., I go back to a Christmas carol written in early 20th century by Christina Rossetti and set to music by famed British composer Gustav Holst, entitled "In the Bleak Midwinter" - with the first two lines opening thus:

In the bleak midwinter,
  frosty wind made moan,
earth stood hard as iron,
  water like a stone...

Now that line "earth stood hard as iron," - well, we certainly experienced what that was all about in the first half-hour of attempting to dig the new trail (note the "attempting"!). We made little better progress than someone trying to chop into a concrete sidewalk with a Pulaski! The earth was just frozen through for some inches after three days of sub-freezing weather. Hack, hack, hack - useless! So after about 35-40 minutes we gave up with little progress made.

So after conferring with GA Maintenance Director Barry Allen by cellphone - he was with a chainsaw crew on far-away Wilscot Mountain, we were relieved of our primary duty and spent the rest of the morning just walking and trimming little limbs on the BMT all the way down to Boardtown Road then hiking back up to our vehicles on Patterson Mtn. and calling it a day by sometime in the noon hour. Six went home, and six traveled to the Pink Pig for late lunch.

We especially wish to note two people's presence: Brand-new member Bob Cowdrick came for his first work trip, and guest Charlie Fehnel attended for a repeat work trip.

Our January work trip was split into two work groups – a format that worked well for us on that cold January day. One group of three worked to clear Section 4 of blowdowns; the other group worked to finish a reroute on section 7c. More on 7c later..........................

One group of three, Mark Yost, Paul Brame and Barry Allen, set out at 10:00 on a cold Saturday morning, 17 degrees by my thermometer. The job was a through walk of Section 4, south bound, Wilscot Gap to Skeenah Gap, to clear blowdowns scattered evenly throughout the section. The cold was not a problem at all; in fact we were pulling layers off within an hour or so. The work was steady, taking about 5.5 hours to walk the 5.2 mile section and remove all blowdowns. The day turned into a bright, sunny day with beautiful views throughout the hike, and the temperature a perfect 49 degrees as we jumped off the trail at 3:30. The three of us worked a total of 16.5 hours, removed 15 blowdowns, picked up a full bag of trash and cleaned two campsites. I’d love to repeat these split crews in the future; there is certainly plenty of work. Hope to see you next month!!!
FEBRUARY WORK TRIP ANNOUNCEMENT

It’s a real Valentine’s Day treat!! Yes that’s right; bring your honey to Falls Branch Falls as we begin a reroute on a much used, but beautiful feature, of our trail. Saturday, February 14\textsuperscript{th} is Valentine’s Day, but it is also our regular monthly workday. So bring your wife/husband, girlfriend/boyfriend, or just bring a friend to help out for a couple of hours at the Falls. We’ll plan on a little shorter day than normal – finished by 1:30 or 2:00, so you can enjoy a little stroll with your partner, or go home and get ready for a night on the town. We’ll meet for a good breakfast at 8:00 at the Village Restaurant in Blue Ridge, leaving the restaurant promptly at 8:40. Or you can meet us in the parking area for Falls Branch Falls at 9:00. A call or e-mail to let us know you are coming is always most welcome (it helps us plan for the right tools and safety equipment), but is certainly not required. Trip leaders for the day are Darcy Douglas or Barry Allen (770-294-7384) or barry.w.allen@att.net

First-timers are most welcome! For what to expect, what to wear, what to bring, go to http://www.bmta.org/pdfs/WorktripsWhatToExpect-revSep2011.pdf

WEATHER POSTPONEMENT: If weather forces a change of plans, the trip will NOT be cancelled in most cases. Instead we will simply postpone the trip for one week. Because of the changeable nature of North Georgia weather we wait as long as possible before postponing. Usually the decision is made early Friday evening and circulated immediately by email.
'There comes an hour of sadness with the setting of the sun, not for sins committed, but for things I have not done.' Author: anonymous

January tip of the month: When installing steps on a section of trail, always work from the bottom up versus the top down. The bottom, or low point, on the run of steps is the most critical, since failure at the bottom leads to quick erosion on the balance of the steps.

Installing or repairing steps can be a tough job, and one which should be done as part of a work trip. Section Maintainers' generally have their hands full without this type of project, so the first thing to do is let the maintenance director know if steps are needed or need to be redone. But if you just can’t wait to get the project going, please keep the following in mind:

1) Use the longest lasting material that makes sense on the job. First choice, use stones where available; second choice, use treated wood when hauling to job is possible; third choice, use logs cut on site. The best natural logs are black locust and sassafras, so take care in choosing a longer lasting naturally rot resistant wood.

2) Start at the bottom of the slope, extending the step 6” to 12” into the grade on either side of the step. Backfill with small rocks or gravel collected or made on site. Then pack tightly as needed with dirt.

3) Give the step a very slight, negative slope. In other words, tilt it very slightly into the rise of the slope. Why? As water picks up speed, it erodes surfaces quicker. So slow the water down with a slight negative slope in the tread. Or better yet, get it completely off the tread (as possible). And remember, to make the steps long lasting, give special attention to the first steps at the bottom of the slope.

Save the Dates!

April 19-24, 2015, attend the first Cheoah Ranger District "Trail-A-Thon" trail maintenance week. We will have free camping at the Rattler Ford Group Camp Area, right beside the Joyce Kilmer Memorial Forest in Graham County, North Carolina, and breakfasts and suppers provided by the Benton MacKaye Trail Association.

Starting on Monday, April 20th, we will split into groups and work sections of the BMT between the Cheoah River and Fontana Dam, starting with chainsaw work first and then brush cutting and tread work. On Friday, we will join the Partners of the Joyce Kilmer Slickrock Wilderness in a clearing of the trails in the Joyce Kilmer Memorial Forest, with lunch provided by that group.

Come for one day or the full week. Plenty of tent sites, and there are a handful of sites for self-contained RVs or campers. We will do group cooking for the breakfasts and suppers, so you only have to bring your lunches. Great chance to join your friends for a great camping and trail work experience.

Dick and Margaret Evans are coordinating this event, so contact them at "bmta@frontier.com" or 828-479-2503 for further details and to sign up. We need to know how many are coming to get the food right.

The Forest service has a prescribed burn scheduled on section 4, in the Payne Gap area. The burn was originally scheduled for late fall 2014, but due to weather conditions, has been postponed until the first part of 2015. Please check the Forest Service website for updates on the burn before hiking the area.

The Forest Service has a timber thinning operation in progress along FS 816. This operation should stay close to the FS road, and should not be visible from the trail. But be aware of logging truck traffic from GA 60 to the parking area for the Swinging Bridge.

The town of Fontana Village, smallest in North Carolina, has been designated by the Appalachian Trail Conservancy as a "Trail Town" in recognition of it’s long years of service to the AT hiking community. The designation ceremony will take place at Noon at the Fontana Lodge on March 26th, followed by a luncheon, hikes and other activities. Dignitaries from the United States Forest Service, National Park Service, ATC and other groups will be in attendance. The public is welcome to attend.
North Georgia Mountain Outfitters, owned by long-time members and big-time supporters of the BMTA, Travis and Shirley Crouch, has just moved to a new location. This new location, just past mile marker 14, on Highway 515/US76, is in a small commercial center several miles north of Ellijay and 7.5 miles south of where the BMT crosses the highway in Gilmer County. Situated on the right side of the highway going north, the new 3,500 square foot store will have great visibility for folks passing by on this gateway to the mountains.

Travis and Shirley stock top lines of products for backpackers and hikers such as North Face and Patagonia and a large selection of packs, tents, sleeping bags and hammocks. The new expanded store has a large selection of hiking shoes and boots complete with expert advice on getting a proper fit. All the BMT guidebooks are stocked, as well as National Geographic maps of the area which show the track of the BMT. Travis also stocks the Geological Survey 7.5 Minute Series topo maps. Travis and Shirley both are avid hikers when they have time away from their store, and Travis has almost finished hiking the Appalachian Trail. They both are a wealth of information on area trails and proper equipment for a pleasant outdoor experience. If you have a chance, stop by and check out their new location.
A Walk in the Woods ....
A must see ...

Rather like a fun, geriatric version of Wild, this long-adorning film version of Bill Bryson’s enormously genial 1998 book A Walk in the Woods is a jolly good time, sparking dozens of chuckles and a few strong laughs. Nothing special cinematically, it still provides a welcome showcase for star Robert Redford, who also produced, and Nick Nolte as two oldsters who attempt to hike the 2,100-mile Appalachian Trail from Georgia to Maine. With smart handling, this breezy entertainment should become one of those occasional films that draws a significant older audience out of their homes and into cinemas.

Can You Name That Mushroom

Keith Truppi, who maintains Section 11c (Fork Ridge Trail >> Rough Creek Trail), ran across this mushroom in his section that he could not identify in his mushroom reference book or online. It is about 3/4" tall and is black with white specs.

Presumably, it’s toxic. Are there mushroom experts out there?
